Reflections of Life

JAMES J. WILLIAMS, the son of the late Emily “Amy” Green and Joseph Williams, was born in Newark, New Jersey on May 11th, 1954. James migrated to New York City where he was raised and a resident of the riverside area of the Bronx. He was educated in the New York City Public School System where he developed his wit and intellect along with the priceless gift of life-long friends.

James, who was also known as Butch or J.J., to loved ones enjoyed traveling, socializing, playing and watching sports (especially basketball), and spending quality time with friends and family members. He shared the wisdom of an elder, but embodied the spirit of a youth as his love for children was truly evident through his sincere desire to actively participate in hanging with or entertaining the youth of our family. He had a true passion for family and traveling as he would jump on the road in the drop of a dime to be present for family members, and through his track record, he spent most summers enjoying quality time with loved ones in Philadelphia.

James was a loyal and responsible individual in spite of some misconceptions, he served as a federal employee for the United States Postal Service for 39 years. James was a valued, trusted, and hard working employee that gained the love and respect of many friends and co-workers. He retired on June 4th, 2009, and was excited to enter the next chapter of his life despite the health issues that played a role in his retirement. He loved the idea of living on his own schedule and was very happy as a retiree. He was a true fighter as he fought and battled different health issues over the years. Unfortunately, when health issues collided, the unexpected death of James J. Williams occurred on September 16th, 2010.

James leaves behind to cherish his memories: his only child and son, Quami J.B. Williams; two step-children April Baber and Vincent Baber; three grandchildren Kyere, Nia, and Jaiden Williams; daughter-in-law Chantell N. Howard (Williams); loved one and mother of Quami, Geraldine, "Gerri" and a host of loved cousins, relatives, and cherished friends.

To Those Whom I Love
And Those Who Love Me
Mary Alice Ramish

When I am gone, release me, let me go
I have so many things to see and do
You must not tie yourself to me with tears
Be happy that I have had so many years

I gave you my love, you can only guess
How much you gave me in happiness
I thank you for the love each have shown
But now it is time I traveled on alone

So grieve a while for me, if grieve you must
Then let your grief be comforted by trust
It is only for a while that we must part
So bless the memories in your heart

I will not be far away, for life goes on
So if you need me, call and I will come
Though you cannot see or touch me, I will be near
And if you listen with your heart, you will hear
All of my love around you soft and clear

Then, when you must come this way alone
I will greet you with a smile and a welcome home.
