Obituary

Carrie Douglas-Mitchell was born October 22, 1909 to the late Stetson and Emma Staley in Aiken, South Carolina. She was one of two children, brother Samuel preceded her in death. She was educated in the South Carolina School system.

Carrie migrated to Orlando, Florida where she later met and married the late Joe Douglas and later moved to New York where she met and married the late James Mitchell. There were no children born to the two unions. Carrie was employed by the Hotel Trade Union.

Her passing is a terrible loss, but her life was not in vain. She was a woman that everyone respected, and although she is no longer here physically, her spirit lives through family and friends. She will be forever thought of and greatly missed.

She leaves to cherish her memory: her loving nieces, Terri and Clara; nephew, George of NY; one great nephew, Kwame; one great great nephew, Elijah of NY; and a host of neighbors and friends and The Greater Harlem Nursing Home Family.

Although the curtain has fallen at the end of her life. In a far off distance we seem to hear her say; although the curtain falls for me, and we must say good-bye, faith, hope, love and trust, can never, never die. Although the curtain falls at last, is that a cause to grieve. The future is fairer than the past, if only we believe.
