

Mother Dear

You'll never know how much I care,
Cause when I need you
You're always here.

Because of this I will devote
All of my love to you.
And my love for you is proud and true.

Mother Dear my love for you
Will always remain sincere and new.

When ever you need me,
I'll be here because you are my
Mother Dear

Mother Dear you're not always aware,
of just how much I really care

From your loving daughter,
Lucille Gwendolyn Jamison

Obituary

Lucille Gwendolyn Jamison, was born on July 16, 1960, in New York City's Harlem Hospital. She departed this life on April 27, 2013. She was born to the late Charlie C. Jamison, Jr., and is survived by Eleanor Marie Randolph.

Lucille received her formal education at Jane Adams Vocational High School in New York; she graduated in June of 1978; continued her nursing studies at Lehman College, Bronx, NY; and graduated on June 5, 1984, with a Bachelors of Science Degree.

Lucille became a proud and devoted licensed Registered Nurse; she worked in Harlem Hospital's Neo-Natal ICU Unit for over 25 years. Her life was centered around making sure her little patients were well cared for. All who knew her could testify that she would help anyone and encouraged all to strive for the best in every avenue of life.

She was known for her limitless talents and had several labels but she's most remember as the "Warden" by many who loved and respected her.

Lucille G. Jamison later married Robert Yard on March 26, 1993.

Lucille, we love you. You will be missed.

Lucille is survived by: her husband Robert Yard; two children; son, Jamal Washington and daughter, Jasmine Perkins; grandchildren, Giovanni Washington, Jamal Washington, Jr.; (in loving memory of her granddaughter Diamond Jimenez who preceded her in death on May 13, 2012); and Danaya Marie Jimenez; step-daughter, Rosalyn Yard; two sisters, Shari M. Young and Barbara J. Zephir; brother, Calvin V. Jamison, Sr.; Niece, Chauntel Archer and nephews, Carlton J. Zephir, Jr., Steven Jamison and Calvin Jamison, Jr.; and a host of many family members and friends.
