Reflections of Life

Deborah Ann Walker-Bishop was born on March 28, 1952 in St. Petersburg, Florida to Pearl Ester Walker and John Henry Walker Sr., who preceded her in death.

She attended St. Petersburg Public Schools before moving to Passaic, NJ in 1976. While residing in Passaic she worked for Newark Airport, Popular, Mail-Co and Number 9 School. In 2000 she relocated to Syracuse, NY, where she worked for Thermal Foams.

Deborah was preceded in death by one son, one sister, Johnnie Mae Coley and one brother, Sidney Walker.

She leaves to cherish her memory: her four daughters, Dietrich Josey-Jones and Unique Bishop of Syracuse and Latoya (Monique) Scott and Sabrina Walker of Passaic; seven grandchildren, Bryan Sheppard, Lamar Werts, Gorgeous Robertson, Tynique Robins, Tyron Robins, Dewayne Carter and Travon Robins; four great grandchildren; three sisters, Pearl Walker-Perry, Mary Walker and Lorna Walker; two brothers, John Henry Walker and Johnny Mack Walker; three sons-in-law, Tyron Robins Sr., Darryl Jones and Michael Gonzales; and a host of nieces, nephews, aunts, uncles, cousins and friends.

Remembering her will be easy; we will do it everyday. But the ache within our hearts will take some time to go away. We will brave the grief that comes and try to understand. The angels called for her sooner than we planned. Though our heart won't let that sadness simply go away. The sorrow will diminish, leaving good memories here to stay. We know her time was borrowed so do not dwell in sorrow. She made the most of the time she had, so let's be thankful for our tomorrow. So when tomorrow starts without her, don't think we're far apart. For every time we think of her, she will be right here in our hearts. This is a journey we all must take, and we'll go alone. Greeted by God at Heaven's Gates, She'll feel so much at home.

Love your daughter, Unique

*I Thought I Saw Her Face
Today In The Sparkle Of The
Morning Sun And Then I
Heard The Angels Say Her
Work On Earth Is Done. I
Thought I Heard Her Voice
Today Telling Me To Stay
Strong And That Everything
Would Be Ok And Then I Heard The Angels Say That
Her Words Where Never Wrong. I Thought I Felt Her
Hands On Me In The Morning Breeze And Then I
Heard The Angels Say That Her Love Will Never
Leave Even Though She's Gone. I Know That Her
Spirit Will Never Leave. I Love And Miss You Aunt
