Reflectors of Life

On October 26, 1954, Rosemarie Jones was born to Lillian Jones in Asheville, North Carolina. She was the first of the five children (Rosmarie, Solomon, Alee, Vivian and Dana) that Lillian would be blessed with.

Her mother relocated to Paterson, NJ and as soon as possible Kitty, as she was affectionately called, would join her. Kitty attended the public school system in Paterson and graduated from Eastside High School. She would become a mother with the birth of her first child, Steven Jabbar Jones. Two more children, Keisha and Eric Jones would soon be added to her blessings. She then met and married, Levi Hurst and of that union one child would be born, Idi Amin Jones.

Kitty spent most of her lifetime in Paterson where she raised her children to the best of her abilities. She would suffer her first painful experience with the loss of her first child, Jabbar. To his honor, she would from that point make him a living part of each and every day she continued. Never would the thought of him leave her.

Kitty is also predeceased by her mother, Lillian by only a month or so ago, and her brother, Solomon. Her pain was often masked by a smile so familiar to all who knew her. It was more her pleasure to bring joy to others, than dwell in self pity. For all who experienced her in their lives, they are aware of how very genuine she was. If you didn't want an honest answer you'd do better not to ask the question. Some may have found her somewhat abrupt. Some gave her the nickname "Tattle Tell", that was self explanatory, but I found her amazingly refreshing.

Kitty was my friend, confidant and more like a sister to me than my very own. If ever an expression for her could be had I'm sure "characters welcome" would be considered. She left something in every life she touched. I will miss her always and forever.

She leaves to cherish her memory: her beloved Stephon (her son in her opinion); seven grandchildren, two special friends, Linda Rivas and William Nazario; two dogs, Skunk and Rock; all the cats in America; and a host of family and friends.

1 Timothy 4:7-8

I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith:

Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing.
