Afterglow

*I'd like the memory of me to be a happy one,
I'd like to leave an afterglow of smiles when day is done.
I'd like to leave an echo whispering softly down the ways,
Of happy times and laughing times and bright and sunny days.
I'd like the tears of those who grieve to dry before the sun
Of happy memories that I leave behind,
When the day is done.*

-Helen Lowrie Marshall

GOD saw that your physical body was weary. He turned to one of his Angels, our Daddy and said it is time. Daddy came down, wrapped his wings around you dear Jessica and you ascended into Heaven. Rest on my baby sister, no more pain, no more suffering. Love you Jessica McRae.

Until we meet again...

*This is a lot to take in. I can't process this, and it really hurts. We were an extension of each other. Nah, more like me being an extension of you. People knew me as Jessica's brother. You were always the cool, popular twin. You always fought and held me down, even when I was acting like a punk. You had a big heart and let everyone in. I've always loved you for that. I always wanted to have your personality because I was so much of an introvert. As much as I wanted you to fight through and get better, God had a different plan. I'm glad that you don't have to suffer any more. I love you so much,
Jess.....*
