Obituary

James Patrick Jackson was born in East Orange, NJ June 26, 1967 to his parents, Edward and Betty Jackson. He attended Newark Public Schools where he received a high school diploma. He departed this life on July 8, 2015.

James was part of a program called McCarmel Guild, a program for inner city children, while in high school. James worked in the restaurant field where he prepared food to be served. He was a quiet laid back person who was loved by so many people that he hardly had any enemies. James loved children. Although he never experienced parenthood, all the children loved him.

James leaves behind: a sister, Sonya Marie Jackson; three nephews, Tyree Jackson, Timothy Troupe and Xavier Davis; one niece, Tatiana Jackson; and a host of family and friends. We also would like to thank our dear friend Lowell Hicks for being in James' life since he was eight years old.

Remembering You

Sitting in this chair thinking how we use to joke around, now that I want your company you're nowhere to be found. As we look up and you look down, you say that "I'm okay, God has me now." I was hoping someday I'd make you proud, but I know one day we'll be together again laughing on the clouds.
