Reflections of Life

Deborah Strong, daughter, sister, mother, aunt, and fearless friend who resided at 1100 Teller Avenue 4K, Bronx, NY died July 30, 2015. Deborah was born to Douglas Drayton and the late Melba Strong Drayton on October 28, 1952 in Manhattan, New York, Sysenham Hospital.

Deborah completed her education in the New York City School system. She was the proud mother of one son, Eugene affectionately known as “Junior”. She loved to travel whenever she could and loved visiting her nieces and nephews.

Deborah was affectionately called “AUNTIE” and loved helping people. She had a few jobs but she especially loved working at the voting polls every year. Her favorite pastime was doing Seek-n-Find Puzzle books, and watching Television.

Deborah was a fighter and fought a very long time with her illness until her untimely death. She will be missed dearly by everyone.

She leaves to mourn her death: one son, Eugene “Junior” Cabness; five grandchildren, Eugene, Sequan, Naomi, Janay and Malik; four nieces; seven nephews; and a host of great nieces, nephews, other relatives and many friends.

Dear Family and Friends,
“Shed No Tears”

Shed no tears, she would say, for I am not dead I'm just away. I called on the Lord so He answered and came to take me away to a place where I'd feel no pain. My heart is at ease and I am at rest God took me home because he knew what was best. He heard my cries and saw what you can't see. He knew heaven was where I needed to be. Don't worry about me. I am just fine because Victory is surely now mine. I've fought my battle and I've finally won. I've made it home to see my Savoir. The Holy one.
