Obituary

Mr. Theodore Roosevelt Faircloth, Jr., affectionately known as “Teddy” was born on January 10, 1938 in Palatka, Florida to Mr. Theodore R. Faircloth, Sr. and Ms. Helen O. Tucker. Teddy attended Commerce High School and City College. Subsequently, he worked as a chemist for Norda and was a co-partner for a laundromat.

Teddy was well known for being a “sharp dresser” — you could always count on a well-coordinated outfit with a Kangol to match every time he walked outside. He was very sociable on the street but not at home — even his best buddies were not allowed to visit. Teddy was honest, outspoken and would win debates on any topic.

Teddy will always be admired for his sincerity and dedication to his friends and especially his family whom he loved dearly. The family loved him dearly as well, and appreciated all the moral support, life lessons and love he provided. Last but not least, Teddy’s sense of humor was enough to make you forget about any of your worries. He has left all who knew him with memories to cherish for a lifetime.

He leaves behind to mourn: his sister, Regina Studwood; niece, Brittany Studwood; nephew, Derrick Studwood, Jr.; brother, Alfred Gene Manns; sister-in-law, Desiree Manns; daughter, Monica Derrick; eternal friend, Loretta Fortune; and a host of family and friends.
