Obituary

Jamal Hassan Bond affectionately known as “Mal” was born February 26th 1974 to Deborah Bond and the late James Newsome in Newark, New Jersey. He was the second child of three children.

Mal was educated in the Newark Public School system. He attended Camden Middle Elementary School and West Side High School. He grew up on Hawthorne Avenue with his brother and cousins at his grandparents Bernard and Sallie Ann Bond whom he loved unconditionally.

He was a devoted father, who loved his children above and beyond all else. He strived to be the best father he could be. Mal was one of a kind! He had a bond with each of his children individual. Mal was a lovable guy. He didn't like being alone that's probably why his nephew, Core was always by his side. He had a unique bond with just about everyone in the family. As a kid, he looked up to his big brother and as a young teen, he was his sister's keeper. He was humble and easy to get along with. He spent every birthday and every holiday with his family. Mal enjoyed some good food. He didn't let small things bother him and never stayed mad too long. He saw the good in people and believed in second chances. You wouldn't mind talking to Mal because he wouldn't judge you. He had a very giving and caring heart. He spoke gently and always with kind words. He would sing notes instead of arguing with you. When he answered the phone he would disguise his voice “welfare”. Mal was a comedian. He spent his life trying to look out for the people. He tried to make everyone happy. Mal was a mama's boy until his last day. He went from his mother house to his sister's house to Virgie Williams house. He always found his way back to Hawthorne. He loved his family and friends and did whatever he could for them.

Jamal leaves his mother, Deborah Bond; step father, Terry Key; children, Jamal Williams, Hassan Williams, Dianna Williams, Ta- tiyonna Williams, Tyquasia McNair, DaShawn Williams, Tariq McNair, Destiny Palmer and Janiyah Bond; grandsons, Hassan Williams and Amari Williams; brother, Laquan Bond; sister, Samera Newsome; nephew, Taquor Newsome and Al-Shareef Ausbon; niece, Assata Glaspie and Virgie Williams; best friend/brother, Alim Bowman; special cousins, Nick Bond and Kendall Bond.

He was preceded in death by his father, James Newsome; grandson, Namir, grandparents, Sallie Ann and Bernard Bond, aunts, Elaine and Paulette Bond, cousin, Cheyenne Bond and mother-in-law, Mary "Slick" Williams.

INTERMENT

Evergreen Cemetery
Hillside, New Jersey

*A million times I needed you
A million times I've cried.
If love alone could have saved you,
you would've never died.
In life I loved you dearly ...
In death I still love you.*

*In my heart you hold a place know one else can ever fill.
It broke my heart to lose you when God called you home, but u didn't go alone part of me went with you so long Mal!
Your loving nephew, Coor*

Perhaps you sent a lovely card or sat quietly in a chair.
Perhaps you sent a floral piece If so, we saw it there.
Perhaps you spoke the kindest words as any friend could say.
Perhaps you were not there at all just thought of us on that day.
Whatever you did to console our hearts, We Thank You, Whatever the part.
