Reflections of Life

Michelle Annmarie Johnson Taylor was born on January 29, 1970 in St. Ann's, Jamaica to Vashti Basco and Artley Johnson, and later relocated to Paterson, NJ.

She was employed for many years as a Home Health Aide until her health declined. After battling with high blood pressure for so many years and being strong and healthy, she suffered a bad stroke in 2014.

Michelle was a strong woman; she was fighting hard for three years to come home to her family until March 27, 2017, when she passed away.

Michelle was a loveable person, always happy even during hard times. She enjoyed watching African movies, socializing with people, and brightening up the room with laughter. She was a family person, and loved getting together and having a good time. She was focused on making a better life for her children. She would always work to provide for her family no matter how small it was, as long as they were happy. Now she is in heaven looking down on us, and will always be in our hearts.

Michelle will be missed by her husband, James Taylor; her daughter, Priscilla James, Brontae Taylor, Donnaro Sharpe, and Teneel Bell; her sons, Dwayne Dacres and Andrae Johnson; her mother Ida Vashti Basco; her sisters, Tamara Johnson and Caren Johnson; her brothers, Kamara Johnson, David Johnson and Dwayne Bascoe; four grandchildren; and a host of other relatives, friends and neighbors.

Psalm 27:1-2

*The Lord is my light and my salvation;
whom shall I fear? the Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid? When the wicked, even mine enemies and my foes, came upon me to eat up my flesh, they stumbled and fell.*
