Obituary

Frederick Brooks was born on October 15, 1956 in New York City to parents, Ruth Harrison and Fred Wardlaw. His nicknames were "Fred" or "Freddie". His siblings are sisters, Sandra Brooks, Sharon Harrison, Leona Harrison, Pamela Wardlaw, Donnel Wardlaw and Sharon Wardlaw, and his brothers, Lloyd Harrison, Larry Wardlaw and William Wardlaw.

Fred lived in a community residential apartment in Manhattan with the Life's WORC Agency. He attended the Day Treatment Program at the Shield Institute.

Fred enjoyed visiting with his family, a good meal, and sunsets. Sometimes he would go on vacation or camping trips with his roommates. Mr. Brooks was a snappy dresser who liked to match his clothes.

One of Fred's favorite pastimes was listening to music. It made him so happy. He would hum along or make sounds and you could see he was enjoying himself, his eyes would light up when the music came on. Also, Mr. Brooks always had a smile for a pretty lady.

He was preceded in death by his father, Fred Wardlaw and his brother, Glen Harrison. Now they are joined together in eternal peace.

Remember Me

Remember me when I am gone
I've enjoyed my time spent with you
And I cherish everything we've done
It's just time to be moving on.

Remember me when I am gone
But do not cry for me, for I
Have gone to a nicer place
I was afraid at first, but not anymore
God has opened my eyes and welcomed
Me through the front door.

Remember me when I am gone
It's okay to grieve, but don't grieve long
For before you know it, you will soon be home
I'll greet you with a great big smile
And love you more than ever.

Remember me when I am gone
But don't stop living, because life goes on
You know I want the very best for you
And living for me is one of the best things to do.
The love you showed me lives in you.
