Obituary

Dennis Lloyd Williams was born on August 4, 1938 to Louis Cornelius Williams and Cassandra Grose in St. Andrew, Kingston Jamaica, West Indies. After primary school he worked for many years for the Kingston and St. Andrew Corporation where he worked with the team responsible for asphaltting the roads. In the mid-1980's he emigrated to the United States, and settled in Jamaica, Queens with his mother, Cassandra. Dennis worked as a factory worker and cab driver before marrying the late Ivy Williams.

In 2013, he became a full-time resident of the Hillside Manor Rehabilitation Center, where he was an ambassador of kindness to both fellow residents and staff alike. Everyone who met him fondly remembers him having a heart of gold, and that he never met someone that he didn't like.

Dennis is survived by his brothers, Patrick, Leon, and Owen; his children: Bevolyn, Kirk, and Andrew; his grand-children, step-children, nieces, nephews, and a host of extended family and friends. He was and will always be sorely missed and Much Beloved.
